WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether President Nixon may withhold Watergate evidence subpoenaed for the trial of former White House assistants.

The Watergate special prosecutor asked the high court Friday to assume jurisdiction in the refusal of the White House to turn over tapes and documents for the Watergate cover-up trial.

Prosecutor Leon Jaworski, pressed for time because the trial is scheduled to start Sept. 9, is seeking to bypass the Washington circuit court.

In other Watergate developments: —Preparations are underway in Washington for the trial of former presidential assistants John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson and three others accused in the September 1971 break-in at the California office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

—House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. said he is going to propose next Thursday that the impeachment panel make public as much of the evidence that has already been presented as it can.

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Nixon's refusal to give the Judiciary Committee any more Watergate material may result in the President's impeachment. "It seems to me that a stonewall attitude isn't necessarily the wisest policy," Ford said in an interview with ABC News.

—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said it is becoming increasingly difficult to defend Nixon in the Watergate scandal. However, Goldwater said he can see no circumstances under which he would go to the President and ask him to resign.

In Judge Gerhard Gesell's court Friday, White House lawyer James D. St. Clair asked that subpoenas seeking notes and memos Ehrlichman and Colson left behind when they resigned be quashed.

When informed that the evidence sought by lawyers for Ehrlichman and Colson would not be provided, Gesell said sternly:

"We're down to the point where the President must decide his responsibilities under the laws of this country."

St. Clair said Nixon was claiming executive privilege, or the right to keep secret his conversations with assistants, and was unable to promise that the defendants or prosecutors in the case could have even limited access to the evidence described in the subpoenas.

"I don't have the authority to waive that privilege," said the President's lawyer.

"There is no privilege," said Gesell. "It is not for the President to determine what documents should be produced; it is for this court to decide."

"I want those documents produced."

In the break-in trial, scheduled to start June 9, the five men are accused of violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, Ellsberg's psychiatrist at the time the former Pentagon analyst leaked the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Indicted along with Ehrlichman and Colson were G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio A. Martinez.

In the Watergate cover-up case, Jaworski asked the high court to resolve the subpoena issue during the court's current term, scheduled to end late next month.

In the case, Colson, Ehrlichman, former White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and three others are accused of obstructing justice.

On-the-job deaths in Wisconsin are down

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — On-the-job deaths in the first three months of this year were 40 per cent fewer across the state than in the first quarter of 1973.

Injuries to Wisconsin workers were more numerous, however, the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations said Thursday.

Job-related deaths declined from 60 in the first three months of last year to 36 this year, while on-the-job injuries reported to its Workmen's Compensation Division rose from 11,705 to 12,553, the department said.

'You can't be a little mouse'

MILWAUKEE (AP) — One year ago, Gregory Alvarez was near death in a Marshfield hospital. He had just gone blind from severe diabetes, both his kidneys had failed and he was kept alive by dialysis.

He was 30 years old.

Alvarez, the father of two, never thought he would see 31. But he decided to fight, and his first move was a kidney transplant.

"You can't be a little mouse," he said at a Wisconsin Kidney Foundation panel discussion this week. "If you don't get involved it won't get done. I am blind, I have diabetes and have had a kidney transplant and it will not get me down."

Eight months ago, after the transplant, Alvarez began exercising. He went from a skinny, weak 124 pounds to what he now calls 145 pounds of "all muscle."

He installed a chinning bar in his apartment and took up basketball, shooting around with neighborhood children and laughing at himself when the ball rebounded off his head.

"You have to learn to laugh at yourself," said Alvarez, a service representative for a tire manufacturer until his illness forced him onto disability. "Life goes on."

Alvarez said he is not satisfied, however, to let people marvel at his rehabilitation or spirit. He wants more: to swish a few more baskets, strain for a few more chin-ups and get a new career.

"Why should people understand me? Just understand me," he said. "It's understanding, the overall word is understanding—and understanding is called love. Love has to be involved."

White House not using him, priest aide says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Jesuit priest on the White House staff denies he is being used by President Nixon and predicts a detente in the dispute with his religious superiors.

The Rev. Dr. John McLaughlin said Friday that a "resolution is in process" in the dispute, adding that "I look forward to a detente."

The Rev. William G. Guindon, the Jesuit official who originally gave McLaughlin permission to go to Washington, said Friday in Vatican City that the White House might be using McLaughlin to imply backing for Nixon from the Roman Catholic Church.

"Father McLaughlin may sincerely think the President's use of profanity is justified, and to the ordinary people it looks as if the church is saying it. In this sense, he has been used," said Father Guindon, referring to McLaughlin's defense of Nixon's presidential tape transcripts.

However, in a telephone interview, McLaughlin said his comments were not an attempt to improve Nixon's moral standing.

"My attempt was to convey the truthful meaning of those transcripts as I see it. It was not a public relations stunt," he said.

As for assertions that he is being used by the White House, McLaughlin said: "This is a fatuous suspicion. I did not deliver my conscience in a sealed envelope to Richard Nixon or anyone else when I accepted the position here."

On Wednesday, McLaughlin received a letter from his current religious superior, the Rev. Richard T. Cleary, provincial of the Jesuit Fathers of New England, calling him to Boston for "prayer and reflection."

Rev. Cleary said he was puzzled as to whether McLaughlin was living up to his vows of poverty and obedience.

McLaughlin resides at the Watergate apartments in Washington, where a one-bedroom apartment rents for from $425 to $700 a month.

McLaughlin said Friday that in the 1971 conversation with his former superior "direct and full discretionary control of my personal finances was reaffirmed. . . I would term . . . temporary autonomy."

Ford cautions Nixon on tape stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford has warned the White House publicly that President Nixon's refusal to give the House Judiciary Committee any more Watergate material may result in the President's impeachment.

Ford's warning, in a television interview with ABC correspondent Bill Zimmerman broadcast Friday night, confirmed earlier indications that the vice president was concerned over Nixon's hardening attitude toward the House impeachment inquiry.

"It seems to me that a stonewall attitude isn't necessarily the wisest policy," Ford said.

Asked if he thought Nixon's refusal to give any more material might be the factor that turns a closely divided House against Nixon, Ford said, "I want the House of Representatives to make its judgment on the facts, not on some emotional, institutional issue."

For weeks, Ford has urged moderation and compromise, both in his public statements and presumably in his private contacts with the President.

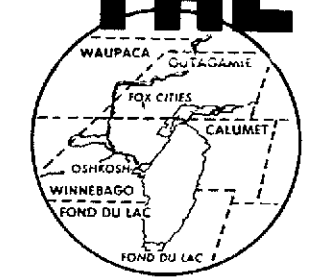

On Wednesday, Nixon sent the Judiciary Committee a letter declaring he would give no further Watergate material. That night, Ford said in Wilmington, Del., that if the panel finds that additional tapes would be relevant to their inquiry, "I hope the President will give it to them, the sooner the better."

The next morning, with little advance notice, the President called Ford in for a talk that was followed by more than the usual reluctance to say what was discussed.

Ford appeared to be in an unusually somber mood as he arrived in New York Thursday night, and an aide said he was "a little uptight" because his schedule had been thrown off by the meeting with Nixon.

DeFreeze last to die: Coroner

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze, the ex-convict who called himself "the nigger that hunts you now," watched his terrorist comrades fall one by one.

Then, wounded twice and hugging the dirt beneath a burning clapboard bungalow, he put a .38-caliber pistol to his head and pumped a bullet into his brain.

That is how Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi reconstructs the death of DeFreeze and five of his Symbionese Liberation Army followers in a shootout with police and federal agent last week.

"There is no evidence to indicate that any of them tried to get out," Noguchi told newsmen Friday in describing his reconstruction of the blazing shootout.

"In all my years as coroner, I've never seen this kind of behavior in the face of flames," he said. "It is reasonable to believe they were determined fanatics...."

Meanwhile, the search for three other suspected SLA fugitives continued without success. Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris were reported seen in such diverse locations as Hollywood and Quartzsite, Ariz., near the California border. Miss Hearst, kidnaped Feb. 4, is thought by authorities to have since joined her SLA captors.

Noguchi said Nancy Ling Perry and Camilla Hall were killed early in the hour-long gunbattle and DeFreeze and three comrades used a trap door or hacked their way to a crawl space beneath the floor as a barrage of police bullets whizzed past them.

It was there, as flames from a fire believed caused by an accidentally ignited molotov cocktail closed in, that William Wolfe, Patricia Soltysik and Angela Atwood choked to death from the smoke or were burned in the fire, Noguchi said.

Noguchi gave this chronology of last Friday's events:
Miss Hall, 29, died first, hit in the forehead by a high caliber bullet. The body of a cat, believed to be her pet, was found next to her.

The next to die was Mrs. Perry, 26, believed to be the chief theoretician and co-leader of the SLA. Bullets severed her spinal cord and pierced her right lung. It was then that the four remaining SLA member forced their way into a 20-inch crawl space under the floor.

There they found a brief respite from the searing smoke and fire.

Noguchi said no trace of tear gas was found in their lungs, but the gas masks they wore had melted on their faces.

Miss Atwood, 25; Wolfe, 23; and Miss Soltysik, 24, perished from smoke inhalation and burns, although all were wounded, the coroner said.

Investigators found more smoke in the lungs of DeFreeze, 30, than in those of the other victims, indicating he was the last to die.

Kissinger makes late try for separation of troops

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Delayed by a bomb scare aboard his official plane, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Damascus today in a last-minute bid to negotiate a separation of Israeli and Syrian forces.

Kissinger won tentative Israeli agreement Friday on a key disengagement issue, and American officials say Kissinger will end his shuttling between Israel and Syria this Sunday whether or not a disengagement pact is agreed upon. He is expected to return home via Bonn and London.

The secretary's 11th trip to Damascus on his current Middle East tour was delayed one hour by a telephoned bomb threat against his U.S. Air Force Boeing 707 at David BenGurion Airport near Jerusalem. Kissinger had not boarded the plane when the threat was received.

Security men found no bomb aboard the craft, which is kept under 24-hour guard, and Kissinger was cleared to leave.

After Kissinger ends his shuttling, American technical experts may remain behind if necessary to assist with the fine points of a disengagement agreement.

In a three-hour session Friday with Israeli negotiators, Kissinger got a favorable reaction on an undisclosed American compromise plan for thinning out Syrian and Israeli forces along the projected cease-fire line. The issue is one of two stumbling blocks remaining in the way of a disengagement agreement.

But Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban made clear that Israeli cabinet approval of Kissinger's suggestion will hinge on the response the secretary receives today from Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Agreement on the thinning out of forces would leave just one major area of dispute: the size and specific responsibilities of the United Nations force that would patrol a buffer zone between the Israeli and Syrian armies.

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres said such issues as the location of the disengagement line, an exchange of prisoners and recovery of bodies of the October war dead have all been settled.

On the Israeli political scene, Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin announced that he had formed a new government to replace that headed by Golda Meir, who has resigned. The makeup of his cabinet was not expected to be announced until tonight.

GM plans 5 new small models, price increase

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is meeting the sales slump in its full-sized cars with five new small models, and prices for all its 1975 cars will go up.

The auto giant said Friday its Chevrolet, Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac divisions each would have a new subcompact when the new model-year opens this fall. A luxury compact Cadillac will go on the market later in the year.

Chairman Richard Gerstenberg, who made the announcement at GM's annual stockholders meeting, indicated that prices on all GM 1975 model cars will be increased "substantially."

He refused to specify how high prices would rise, but he said cost increases alone would be "several hundred dollars." Industry observers interpreted that to mean prices could go up an average $250 or more per vehicle.

Earlier this month, GM raised car and truck prices an average $105. Its cheapest car, the subcompact Chevrolet Vega, now lists for $2,505, and could go up to $2,750 or higher by September.

"These new cars with smaller engines will provide the most tangible affirmation of your company's desire and, more important, its ability to deliver in quantity what the motoring public wants," Gerstenberg told stockholders.

He said the new models will enable GM's small car lines to capture 40 per cent of the firm's total car sales, compared with 21 per cent in 1973. Industry observers estimated the new sporty subcompacts would list for around $3,500, while the compact Cadillac would be priced in the $7,000 range.

GM's compacts — the Chevrolet Nova, Oldsmobile Omega, Pontiac Ventura and Buick Apollo — will be restyled for the new model year.

Gerstenberg said, however, GM would not retrench from the big-car market. The family-size car "will continue to command a major, if somewhat lesser, share of the market," he said.

Steiger pushes OMB for pollution funds

WASHINGTON — Cong. William Steiger this week urged the head of a federal agency to beef up funds for water pollution abatement projects and mentioned the lagging Neenah-Menasha project as one that was suffering because of a fund cutback.

Steiger, in writing Office of Management and Budget Director Roy Ash, called for an inclusion of "essential funds" in OMB's budget request for the Environmental Protection Agency.

Steiger was referring to the fact that although the cost of water pollution abatement projects around the county now qualify for about $3 billion, just $1.9 billion in federal funding is available in government reimbursements.

Last December, Congress authorized an additional $700 million in grants but the money was never appropriated.

Raising the available federal fund pool to $2.6 billion would have, at the time met the needs of most communities who applied and expected to receive up to 55 per cent in federal grants. Neenah-Menasha was among them.

After that, however, EPA changed a priority system which meant that the local expansion project could no longer expect to qualify for full federal funding.

In his letter to Ash, Steiger wrote, "The need for additional funds is particularly critical in the case of projects started under the old pollution abatement law but left incomplete pending release of promised reimbursement funds."

ADVOCAP's Youth Challenge Project

OSHKOSH — A first meeting of ADVOCAP's Youth Challenge Project steering committee for Winnebago County will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the county mental health center.

Eileen Lewandowski, project planner, said the general public and especially persons aged 16 to 21 will be welcome.

Miss Lewandowski said the Youth Challenge Program is a service-learning project involving services by young people to agencies and people. Learning through volunteer service is expected to provide job entry level skills, extend academic learning and improve self-image, she explained.

The project will be launched in Fond du Lac County at a similar meeting May 30.

The Winnebago County meeting will be held in the dining area of the mental health center at Winnebago.

District funds for inmate vocational program backed

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

The State Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education expressed strong disagreement with the Northeast Wisconsin Technical Institute Board's recent decision to refuse to use district funds to support a vocational program at the State Reformatory.

In stating its opposition to the NWTI Board's action in April which left the program without the necessary $15,000, the state board also indicated that it is considering steps to force district boards to set aside a certain percentage of local tax money for just such programs.

The NWTI Board approved of the program that would offer vocational training to reformatory inmates, but contended that since a greater percentage of the inmates come from outside the district, the program should be funded by the state.

The state board did not agree. A subcommittee of the board has recommended that a resolution requiring all district boards to set aside funds for programs for disadvantaged be studied for its legality.

Board Vice-President Peter Senn of Campbellsport pointed out that residents of the Town of Allouez, near the reformatory, argued against the proposed reduction in inmate and staff numbers recently because of a claim that the institution represented a major industry for the area.

Senn said that if the reformatory was a

"The future of these projects is threatened if they are to be shut out from access to further grants. Yet, scars left by prior confrontations over water pollution control expenditures have made the House Appropriations Committee reluctant to include money for additional reimbursement without the support of a budget request," Steiger wrote.

Steiger urged Ash to beef up EPA's grant to meet the greater need. Steiger indicated this could be accomplished preferably through a supplemental budget request or a provision in the 1976 fiscal budget if the former is deemed impossible.

"Only by actually making this money available can promises given to communities throughout the nation be honored," Steiger said.

Dr. Finch hoping he can resume practice

EL DORADO SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch says he is ready to give up his struggle to obtain a Missouri medical license, if he can practice medicine in another state.

"The people want me, but the board doesn't," Finch said of the Missouri Board of Registration for the Healing Arts, which has refused to issue him a license because he was convicted in 1961 of murdering his wife in California.

Finch said Wednesday he has written to licensing boards in three other states to find out if his conviction would prevent him from practicing medicine.

Finch, 56, has been an X-ray technician at the Cedar County Memorial Hospital in El Dorado Springs since his parole three years ago.

His receptionist, Carole Tregoff, was convicted of second-degree murder and conspiracy in the slaying.

Police said Reed perched himself on a ledge above the door leading into cell block D and jumped the jailer when he entered to make a routine check.

Reed is accused of striking the jailer, Donald E. Wall, 34, 320 Cherry Lane, Little Chute, in the face with a shower nozzle he had concealed in a towel.

Wall was hospitalized briefly after the incident.

Lopas introduced a resolution at the annual town meeting calling for formation of a committee to study the landfill site and recycling.

Agency on aging starts by naming pro tem officers

OSHKOSH — Wayne Arihood, Fond du Lac, manager of Autumn House, the former Retlaw Hotel, was named temporary chairman of the Area Agency on Aging for Lake Winnebago District 3 during an organizational meeting here Friday.

The three official delegates attending divided the officer chores on a temporary basis until a majority of the district counties can qualify delegates to the agency.

Vice chairman duties fell to Elmer Schieffer, Wautoma, a retired accountant and member of Senior Citizens and Rural Rembrandts. Ernie Lange, Westfield, also a retired accountant and president of the Westfield Senior Citizens, was named secretary-treasurer.

They are delegates from Waushara and Marquette counties, respectively.

Interested persons from six of the eight counties in the Lake Winnebago District 3 attended a briefing session at the social services building here and saw the area agency take form.

Reporting the results of a three delegate caucus, Arihood said the search for an agency director will begin immediately with advertisements in the eight official county newspapers and in Madison and Milwaukee newspapers.

Applications will be requested by June 7 on standard state employment forms mailed to the chairman. Agency members will meet June 10 at Autumn House, Fond du Lac, to review applications.

Arihood said work will begin immediately on a 90-day initial plan for area services. He urged that other county delegates be named as soon as possible to participate in agency activities.

Told that District 3 is the slowest in the state to implement new federal guidelines for services to the elderly, the newly formed agency will work against a June 30 deadline for approval of a preliminary three-month plan as a basis for funding. Once accomplished, it will be incorporated into a 12-month plan.

Reporting to the meeting, Jack Loman, consultant, State Division on Aging, said Waushara and Winnebago county boards have recently created commissions on aging. He anticipated that members will be appointed and agency delegates chosen promptly.

Outagamie County Board will consider the commission resolution next week and Calumet County on June 25. At Green Lake, the county board reportedly laid over or tabled a commission resolution.

The thrust of the new programs, Loman explained, is toward areawide services, replacing the fragmented projects which in Wisconsin are being carried on at some 100 sites.

Public Law 93-29, passed by the Congress in May, 1973, provides for an administrative structure to eliminate duplication and fill the gaps in services, Loman continued.

The emphasis is on maintaining the independence of the elderly in their own homes rather than in institutions and on reducing the economic and social barriers to that independence.

"You will be the people calling the shots now, not the state," he told delegates. "You will be drawing this plan together, not getting projects handed down from the state as has happened so often in the past."

Wisconsin's plan establishes the administrative districts as the planning and services areas required by the federal law. Each of the counties is asked to create a commission on aging as a standing committee of county government and advisory to the county board. The commissions will collect information, coordinate existing programs, disseminate information and advise.

Each will elect a delegate and an alternate to the Area Agency on Aging (AAA) board of directors. Each AAA is incorporated as a private nonprofit corporation to receive funds, develop policies and programs, and employ a staff to implement them.

Costs to each county are minimal or nothing, Loman said. County boards might or might not provide per diem and/or expenses for the commission members.

Other costs would probably be in-kind contributions to be made at the decision of the county boards.

Approval of an Area 3 preliminary plan would apparently solve the problem of initial funding. Loman said the area is funded at $147,000 for fiscal 1974 with access to another $51,033 set up for organizational costs of the area agency. Funds left unspent in the organization fund will carry over, he said.

Area plans, Loman detailed, must deal with five mandated activities. A maximum 15 per cent of the grant only may go to the planning program on a 75-25 per cent matching basis.

The remaining funds on a 90-10 per cent matching basis are available for use in providing: coordination of existing services, the pooling of available but untapped resources in the PSA, supporting social service of transportation, escort service and outreach, and gap filling services as agreed by the AAA.

"No area plan is standard," Loman counseled. "Different amounts of money for different resources will be indicated."

"You decide where the dollars are to be used. You will not be able to fill all the needs. The agency members must agree on a common plan. The agency is responsible for use of the dollars, but it must use its tools of evaluation to set priorities."

Loman said the agency can go to its member counties for matching funds or in-kind contributions, but "the counties don't have to give."

He estimated the Area 3 grant will require about $16,000 in seed funds or in-kind contributions.

Arihood said the agency will advertise the position of director at from $9,000 to $12,000 annual salary and negotiable. Duties include providing staff assistance to the agency and leadership in developing and implementing an area plan under Title III of the Older Americans Act.

Required will be a college degree with specialization in public administration, social work or related fields. Skills should include knowledge of administrative principles and methods of research and ability to prepare and present concise oral and written reports.

Campground reservation plan is boom to campers

By JAMES A. CARLSON
Associated Press Writer

A new reservation system for state campgrounds should mean added convenience for campers and camp managers, but state officials say it contains no remedy for weekend crowding at the state's camping facilities during the peak summer months.

"Some people will have it made and other people won't, and it's still going to be crowded on weekends," Loren Thorson, a recreation spokesman with the Department of Natural Resources, said.

The system, included in legislation signed into law by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey earlier this month, goes into effect June 10 and covers 910 campsites at six state parks and state forests.

Those sites amount to less than 20 per cent of the state's 5,200 camp sites, but they are located in parks and forests normally receiving the heaviest crush of camping pressure.

Thorson said the system would allow "a certain portion of people to strike out knowing they have a site waiting for them."

"They won't have to search around, burning up gas, trying to find another camp site" after being turned away from a state campgrounds, he said.

Past experience would indicate, however, that many campers will find no room at the state's facilities for most summer weekends.

Thorson said the state's camping areas are normally filled to within 90 per cent of capacity on weekends during the peak periods of mid June to mid August.

With the total occupancy at 90 per cent, "we obviously have a lot of parks that are 100 per cent filled up" during those weekends, he said, although the pressure is not as great on week days.

He emphasized that those unable to camp at state units can usually find facilities at private campgrounds, which have a total of about 22,000 sites. Public sites operated by local governments add another 5,000 or more camp sites, he said.

"We do not discourage campers from coming to state parks just because public campgrounds are full," he said.

Those staying at camp areas outside the state parks or state forests can still enjoy park facilities during the day, he said.

"It is not the state's purpose to provide camping opportunities for all the people who want to camp," Thorson said. He said the state follows a general policy of determining what are the best activities for a particular park when it is established and developing the park accordingly.

Camping pressure on state facilities could be abnormally heavy this year due to higher gasoline prices, Thorson said, but resource officials will have no real indication of camp use until the early weeks of the summer season, starting after the Memorial Day weekend.

He said the greater fuel expense might make more Wisconsin campers head for sites within the state instead of traveling elsewhere.

Residents of the Chicago area, normally totaling about 25 per cent of the state park users, "will probably still come to Wisconsin just to flee the big city" he said. "They really don't have much choice but to go north," he added.

The reservation system applies to parks and forests which are among the state's most popular.

Thorson said the reservations could help resource officials determine which parks would be filled in advance and direct prospective campers to other uncrowded campgrounds.

He also said officials would have the chance to "observe rather closely and profit by any mistakes in developing the reservation system," which could be expanded to most of the state facilities next year.

Covered under the system are 250 camping units at Devil's Lake State Park near Baraboo; 131 units at Gov. Dodge State Park near Dodgeville; 175 at Kettle Moraine State Forest north of West Bend; 44 at Kettle Moraine State Forest southwest of Waukesha; 185 at Peninsula State Park north of Sturgeon Bay; and 125 at three campgrounds of the Highland State Forest near Miroqua.

Reservation requests must be filed with the parks seven days in advance, with state residents allowed a 60-day advance registration period, while out-of-state campers can make reservations 30 days in advance.

A reservation fee of $2 must accompany the reservation, along with a camping fee of $2.25 daily for rustic camping and $2.75 per day for modern sites.

The reservation forms are to be available June 3 at the parks, department offices, state tourist information centers and the state vacation center in Chicago.

DNR officials said a provision allowing state residents a 30-day advantage over non-residents is under dispute and an attorney general's opinion has been requested.

Thorson said the application forms for reservations will become available June 3

Democrats joined Senate 'big spenders,' Lucey told

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's attacks on Republicans in the state Senate drew hostile return fire Friday.

GOP leaders said Lucey's complaints about efforts of the Republican-controlled Senate should have also been directed at Democrats.

The Democratic governor, upset after Senate passage of $18 million worth of amendments to what had been a $14 million budget review bill, called the Senate's special session performance a "disgraceful exhibition of legislative and fiscal responsibility."

He warned Republican "big spenders" they might have to face the consequences in November elections.

"I think it was bipartisan irresponsibility, actually," said Sen. Thomas Petri, a Bear Creek Republican and the GOP candidate for attorney general.

"Republicans are in the majority and therefore responsible," he said, "but I don't think the votes on any of the amendments were party line."

"The problem was that almost every senator, from both parties, had two or three items that were of interest to people in his district, so he felt obligated to bring those up."

Petri and other Republicans noted that the 17-10 vote for final passage included ayes from nine Democrats and only eight Republicans.

Several Democrats said they voted for passage only to end debate and get the measure to a conference committee.

"If the governor will examine the roll call votes he will discover there were Democrats as well as Republicans voting for the spending," Sen. Ernest Keppler, Senate vice president, said.

"It was a Christmas tree of some goodies for everybody," Democrats included," he said.

William Dyke, the GOP's endorsed gubernatorial candidate, called Lucey's attacks on Senate Republicans an unusual tactical error.

"It is a surprising thing to me," he said Friday. "He usually remains so aloof. I just can't get over the surprise that either the governor has lost his touch with his Senate leadership, or he hasn't seen the count" of the final roll call.

Dyke said Lucey had a choice between placing blame on both parties or being "grossly partisan."

"He chose to be partisan," Lucey news secretary Jeff Smoller maintained Friday "that as far as blame is concerned, I think the governor's statements were accurate."

"It's very difficult when you've doubled the budget and made all those promises to renege," he said. "The fact the Senate leadership is Republican and really controls what goes on in that house speaks for itself."

But Keppler, a Republican, said "it's unfair just to mention Republicans."

"If it comes back to haunt Republicans it should also come back to haunt Democrats. It was a bipartisan thing and I think it was awful."

Heritage Hill project gets good, bad news

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The good news and bad news for supporters of Heritage Hill State Park in the Town of Allouez continues to roll in.

Good news for park proponents was the Senate's action last week amending the budget review bill to include enumeration of Heritage Hill, and enable the State Building Commission to take action.

Bad news was the Senate's loading up of the budget bill with an additional $20 million of appropriations that made the measure unacceptable to the Assembly and required a compromise committee.

Good news was the appointment of six legislators to the compromise committee whom observers feel will not object to the inclusion of the project in the bill, and thus forward the matter to the Building Commission.

But bad news is the word from the Department of Natural Resources that even if the budget review bill includes enumeration, Heritage Hill State Park will probably not be brought before the Building Commission for first-phase funding approval until September.

Milton Reinke, director of the DNR's Bureau of Parks and Recreation, said that a Building Commission request that private industry be solicited in an effort to dredge up voluntary contributions, would slow up final approval of the Heritage Hill park.

"We want to wait until we have legislative approval of the project itself before we approach private contributors," Reinke said. "This process could take two or three months so if the budget is approved in June, it could be September before we come to the Building Commission. But I am very optimistic about getting some private contributions."

It is doubtful that the compromise committee will prove much of an obstacle to Heritage Hill. None of the members has shown any reason to oppose the idea.

The committee members are Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale; Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Brown Deer; Sen. Henry Dorman, D-Racine; Rep. Gary Johnson, D-Beloit; Rep. Terry Wilkom, D-Chippewa Falls and Rep. Kenneth Schriker, R-Spooner.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's endorsement of the recommendation that enumeration be included in the bill is expected to bring in the votes for the four Democratic members while the Senate's approval, along with strong lobbying by Rep. Cletus Vanderperren, D-Green Bay, and Sen. Thomas Petri, R-Fond du Lac, should also aid the project.

Since Lucey has already approved enumeration, it is unlikely that he will choose to line-veto the project from the budget bill when it comes to his desk for signature.

Thus, the Heritage Hill project should return to the State Building Commission late in the summer or early fall. Three members, Rep. Jon Wilcox of Wautoma, Sen. Milo Knutson of LaCrosse and Sen. James Swan of Elkhorn, all voted against enumeration last month and can be expected to oppose the project when it returns, unless the addition of private funds changes their minds.

Should the project get blocked either at the budget bill or Building Commission level, it would be virtually impossible for the DNR to proceed with the project even if the private funds were provided in amounts in excess of the cost of the project.

The Building Commission must still authorize the construction of the project, and the Commission cannot act unless the project has been enumerated in the budget.

Favorite truck

This old dump truck has been parked on the lawn at 1215 W. Wisconsin Ave. for about 30 years because its owner, Hickey Morris, wouldn't be without it. Morris, 77, has owned and taken care of the truck for nearly 50 years. When the truck was in regular use, Morris plowed snow in Fond du Lac County and did hauling jobs in Grand

Chute. Now he paints it regularly and starts it every year. "I just like to have it there," he says. The truck was moved to his lawn when the garage where it was stored in the old 4th Ward was torn down. Now Morris says he's used to it being there and doesn't really want to put it in another garage. "I guess I'd kind of miss it," he says. (Post-Crescent photo)

Budget bill amendment would allow school to keep programs

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — Nicolet College and Technical Institute at Rhinelander has been the center of controversy since it initiated its "dual tract" program of liberal arts and vocational, technical and adult education courses more than five years ago.

The state Senate's acceptance of an amendment to the budget review bill, and more important, an apparent compromise between Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and Merrill State Sen. Clifford (Tiny) Krueger, will serve to quiet the controversy for the time being.

The amendment, which observers feel certain will be retained by the compromise committee reviewing the budget bill, enables Nicolet College to continue to operate with its high number of liberal arts course offerings despite a state law that says no vocational district may have more than 25 per cent of its courses in liberal arts.

The provision also guarantees that Nicolet College will not be denied state aid because of this excess, provided that the State Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education meet with college officials and set liberal arts course limits and devise methods to bring the number down to 25 percent by the end of the 1976-77 school year, when this guarantee runs out.

It is a complicated solution to a complicated situation but it should satisfy all parties for now.

School officials will find the agreement to their liking because it means that the heavy blend of liberal arts and VTAE courses at the college can continue for at least three more years.

To understand the effects of this agreement, it is necessary to understand the history of the college.

Rhinelander is located in a section of the state that is not readily accessible to any public or private college. In the late 1960's, the idea was advanced to establish a school at Rhinelander, combining the courses offered by the vocational school and a liberal arts program. A referendum was placed on the ballot.

When the college opened, the state legislature cooperated generously by passing a law that exempted the school from a requirement that it charge tuition for collegiate transfer courses.

School officials and area taxpayers hailed this move. They pointed out that to remove that exemption would force the school to distinguish between liberal arts and VTAE students, thereby diluting the true purpose of the college.

Area taxpayers further felt that since they were paying for the college themselves, it would be unfair to ask them to pay for tuition.

The exemption from tuition payment did not last long. The 1971-73 state budget contained a provision taking away Nicolet's exemption. When the bill was signed into law, Nicolet was required to charge a fee for its collegiate transfer or liberal arts courses.

Krueger, a Republican legislator representing most of the district, offered an amendment to the 1972 budget review bill re-establishing this exemption but Lucey line-vetoed it out.

Passage of the university merger bill made things worse for Nicolet. The bill limited all VTAE districts to offering just 25 percent of its courses in the liberal arts field, an obvious attempt to head off the growing competition of the VTAE schools.

This provision was aimed primarily at the Milwaukee and Madison technical districts which were offering more and more collegiate transfer courses. But it had an obvious effect on Nicolet College.

Nicolet, at last computation, was offering 57 percent vocational courses and 43 percent liberal arts, the latter figure substantially over the 25 percent limit. The State VTAE Board, attempting to make an issue of this, voted to withhold state aid to Nicolet College representing that 18 percent excess. This move cost the college $155,000 last year.

State VTAE Director Eugene Lehmann requested an opinion from Attorney General Robert Warren to see if the Board had the authority to withhold this money and was told that it did.

Department of Administration officials interpreted Warren's opinion to mean that if the school exceeded the 25 percent, it lost all state aids.

The original budget review bill that appeared before the legislature in March contained wording that said

Nicolet could exceed the 25 percent through the 1974-75 school year but not receive state aids for the excess. The bill was killed and has been resurrected in the special session.

Krueger then introduced his amendment allowing Nicolet to exceed 25 percent and receive state aid for it through 1976-77.

He also included wording that the state board set liberal arts limits on Nicolet. To assure administration officials that Nicolet would not make any money on the deal, he included a formula that limits the amount of state aids plus tuition from exceeding the cost of the college transfer courses.

This amendment, says Lehmann, is also a strong suggestion that the state board begin making plans with Nicolet to see that the 25 per cent limit is met by the 1977-78 school year.

"That seems to be the intent of the amendment," Lehmann said. "We will have to sit down with officials at Nicolet and set some definite goals for the years ahead in hope of getting down to the 25 percent."

No doubt, there will be attempts to extend the deadline in the years ahead, especially in the 1975-77 state budget.

For the time being, Nicolet will be allowed to continue its experiment in providing something that no other institution in the state can offer as well: a liberal arts and VTAE program in one.

4 Guard units to stay in state to save fuel

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin National Guard has canceled out-of-state training for four units in an effort to save fuel, Secretary of Administration Joe E. Nusbaum said Friday.

Nusbaum said the units, which he did not identify, had been scheduled for training in Arkansas, Indiana, Mississippi and Kentucky, but will train instead at Camp McCoy and Camp Williams.

Their staying at home will save about 15,000 gallons of fuel, he estimated.

But Nusbaum added that more guardsmen than last year, 1,870 men will still train outside the state because of a new experimental advanced training program by the Army.

"Since our strength now depends on a volunteer military, we feel this advanced training is necessary," Maj. Gen. James J. Lison Jr., the guard's adjutant general, told Nusbaum.

The secretary said the change in training plans was only one of several conservation measures put into effect by the guard.

Nusbaum prepared his report for Gov. Patrick J. Lucey as part of the state energy conservation program.

Randy D. Hauser, 13, 532 N. Rankin St., complained of an elbow injury after his bicycle was struck by a car at Atlantic and Drew streets about 4 p.m. Friday.

Police said the boy was riding north on Drew when the car, driven by Regina M. Gmeiner, 62, 616 W. Commercial St., pulled out from a stop sign in the west-bound lane of Atlantic and struck him.

Two persons were injured when their car ran into the cement base of a utility pole at Marc's Big Boy Restaurant, 2220 E. Northland Ave., about 9:15 p.m. Friday.

The driver, Brenda J. Smith, 704 Lawe St., Kaukauna, received a head injury, while Penny L. Watson, 17, 2207 Glenview Ave., Kaukauna, sustained head and leg injuries.

Police said Smith, 19, struck the base after pulling left from a parking place.

James M. Busch, 508 N. Morrison St., told police someone took a tape player and seven tapes from his car while it was parked at Morrison and North streets between Sunday and Friday.

Police said a vent window was forced open and that the missing items were valued at $125.

Otto Bytof, 901 Bay Ridge Road, told police someone stole $300 from his wallet Wednesday at Riverview Country Club, 1201 S. Oneida St.

No damage estimate was given after a thermopane window was pierced by a fired BB at the Fred Longiro residence, 1425 W. Taylor St. The damage was detected Friday.

A 2-year-old girl escaped with minor injuries after she fell into a trench surrounding construction of a new addition of the family's home about 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Firemen said Paula L. Schafhauser, daughter of the James Schafhausers, 1031 E. Marquette St., received only a small stomach scrape.

Be cautious about pro fund raisers

In Long Island, N.Y., two police benevolent associations recently engaged a professional fund-raiser to launch a campaign for the sale of tickets to a circus — the proceeds supposedly to benefit a "community youth program" and "retarded children."

The sales pitch was later modified to indicate that only a portion of the funds would go to retarded young people and the rest would be used to create a "widows and orphans" trust fund.

Actually most of the money raised was to be used for "administration expenses," New York state Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz's crusading staff moved in and obtained an agreement from the promoters under which $42,000 raised in the circus ticket sales campaign did in fact go to the intended charities.

Funds tied up by promoter
In Cincinnati, Ohio, Citizens for Decent Literature, Inc. — later renamed Citizens for Decency Through Law, Inc. — was ostensibly organized to eliminate pornography in literature. Lefkowitz charged in a proceeding brought in New York state that more than two-thirds of the funds raised in a nationwide campaign went for fund-raising and administration purposes and almost $15 million of anticipated future receipts were tied up to a professional fund raising corporation.

The organization agreed to discontinue soliciting funds in New York until it is freed of the $1.5 million debt to Richard A. Viguerie Co., Inc., of Washington, D.C., the fund-raiser. Moreover, any future solicitation must provide for the allocation of at least 65 per cent of contributed funds for charitable purposes. The company paid costs of $1,000 to the state but denied any violation of law.

From coast to coast, organizations designed to help the blind are often the prey of the unscrupulous fund-raiser. Door-to-door sales crews offering "Toiletries Packed by the Blind" was put out of business in New York by the Attorney General after an investigation disclosed that receipts from the sales went substantially to the promoters and little to the blind.

Victims of fund raisers
Be warned! Your church, your community improvement society, Boy Scout troop, Police Boys Club — any of your favorite charities, large or small — can all too easily be the victims of corrupt professional fund-raisers who gobble up as much as 80 per cent of the contributions made during highly organized campaigns.

Your charity's intentions and your efforts to help it raise funds may be entirely well-intentioned. What's more, without the generosity of the millions of us who contribute to fund-raising campaigns, essential and deeply desirable organizations would die. But we fall into the traps of greedy fund-raisers — who disguise their actual gouging of contributors under the term "administration expenditures" — because of our own credulity.

The tales go on and on. One fund raising team, which sponsored entertainments for a Jewish center, a volunteer fire company, a YMCA, a fraternal organization and a hospital guild, turned over only 20 cents out of every dollar raised. Businessmen often contribute to high pressure promotions for ads in booklets because of the lure that their contributions will be tax deductible. To make sure you don't help to defraud your own favorite charity:

Insist on specific return

Don't make any blind agreements with a fund-raising organization. Instead, insist that the return to the charity, says Lefkowitz, be at least in the area of two-thirds or more of collections — depending on the type of solicitation, the difficulties involved in raising the money, the geographic region involved, the availability of funds for the campaign.

Require the fund-raisers to outline in writing what their pitch will be. Demand that they stick to an appeal based on an honest presentation of the need and, during your campaign, make spot checks with contributors to be sure this is being followed.

Ask your state agency which registers or licenses professional fund-raisers whether the individuals you will be dealing with are reputable and have adequate experience.

Be fully aware that — no matter how desperate your organization may be for funds — if there is fraud or deception in the campaign, you could be named as a defendant in a legal action brought to stop the solicitation and to seek to have the contributions returned to the public.

... we wouldn't be needin' more an' bigger police forces if'n more of us was willin' t' get involved when we see ar neighbor bein' victimized.

Ann Landers

Living together not wise

Dear Ann Landers: My parents and I have carried on a running argument for three months. Will you please try to see all sides of this question and answer it honestly?

My boyfriend and I have been going together for over a year. We plan to get married when he finds a job he really likes. I am working but I live at home and have to pay room and board.

I want to move out of my parents' house and live with my fiancé. We could make it financially, with my check added to his. My folks are against it. They say it is immoral. We say it's sensible. We just might find out after we live together awhile that we don't like each other well enough to spend the rest of our lives together.

Isn't it better to shack up for a time than to get married, find out you've made a mistake and then get a divorce? How else can two people really learn all about one another's little quirks? What do you say?—M. and B.

Dear M. and B.: Sorry, but shacking up isn't the same as being married. Moreover, the evidence is on the other side. A recent survey showed that couples who lived together before marriage had a higher divorce rate than those who didn't play house before the ceremony. And what's more, the divorces tended to be filed within the first two years of those marriages. Those are the facts, ma'am.

Dear Ann Landers: Please be the referee. Freddy's parents have been divorced for three years. We plan to marry this summer.

I think Freddy's dad should be invited to the wedding. He says it would make his younger brothers and sisters very uncomfortable. They have not seen their dad in a long while and my fiancé thinks it might be a traumatic experience for them if he showed up at the wedding. The kids range from 10 to 15 years of age. I think it's time they accepted the realities of life. Their dad lives in this town and they can't duck him forever.

What do you say?—Danbury, Conn.

Dear Dan: Never mind about me. What does Freddy's mother say? Is there a new wife? Would she be welcome? Was it a scandalous divorce or an amiable one? Before I could give an intelligent answer I'd have to know a lot more than you've told me. I suggest the clergyman who is to perform the ceremony be the "referee," not Ann Landers.

Dear Ann Landers: For 15 years I have been married to a very decent guy. He has enough good qualities to fill this entire page. The problem (I am almost ashamed to tell you) is that his eyes nearly bug out of his head whenever an attractive woman walks by. She doesn't have to be beautiful, so long as she has a big front porch and is broad across the beam. That's enough for him.

If he was starved for sex at home, that would be another story. But he's not. It's elevator operators, waitresses, sales clerks, anything female. Even teen-agers. I've mentioned to him how it embarrasses him when he gawks and leers, but he keeps on craning his neck and I die inside. What's the answer?—Embarrassed Wife

Dear Wife: Ignore it. When he stops looking at them, he'll also stop looking at you. (Copyright 1974)

Sin real, psychiatrist says; accept responsibility for it

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One of America's greatest psychiatrists, Dr. Karl Menninger, says the old religious word, "sin," has almost disappeared from modern usage, but it remains a fact of the human condition that must be recognized to deal with it.

He says the realities of personal "guilt and sin" have been glossed over as only symptoms of emotional illness or environmental conditioning for which the individual isn't considered responsible, but he adds:

"There is 'sin' ... which cannot be subsumed under verbal artifacts such as 'disease,' 'delinquency,' 'deviancy.' There is immorality. There is unethical behavior. There is wrongdoing."

He calls for a reaffirmation of the concept of "sin" and of personal responsibility for it. In a new book published by Hawthorne called "Whatever Became of Sin?" he declares:

"If the concept of personal responsibility and answerability for ourselves and for others were to return to common acceptance, hope would return to the world with it."

Menninger, who pioneered psychiatry in this country and who founded the psychiatric center in Topeka, Kan., that bears his name, says the "sense of personal moral responsibility is faint and apparently growing fainter."

Challenging the views of such behavioral scientists as Harvard's B. F. Skinner that individual acts always are determined by environmental or physical conditions, Menninger cites experimental evidence to the contrary, and declares:

"There is always some environmental determination and always some individual determination and it is improper to exclude either."

But he adds that the present popular attitude appears to be that "in the courtroom, everyone is responsible. Elsewhere, almost no one seems to be."

Menninger says that just as it is inadequate for a clergyman to give only pastoral counseling to a schizophrenic, it is inadequate for a psychiatrist to treat a symptom like sleeplessness of a man involved in wicked rascality.

"It does little good to repent a symptom, but it may do great harm not to repent a sin," he says. "Vice versa, it does little good to merely psychoanalyze a sin and sometimes a great harm to ignore a symptom."

He says recognizing the fact of voluntarily willed sin is "the only hopeful view," since it implies the possibility of repenting and correcting it. He adds:

"The logical, reasonable, effective solution for tension reduction in such circumstances is to make atonement, as the theologians call it, or as we say, by restitution, acknowledgment and revised tactics."

The result, he says, "would not be more depression, but less."

As the situation now is, he says, "vague, amorphous evil appears all around us," with the presumption that "no one is responsible, no one guilty" and that there is "just nothing to do."

Consequently, he adds, "we sink to despairing helplessness."

He cites the traditional list of deadly sins — self-deifying pride, lust, gluttony, anger, sloth, envy, greed — and adds some of his own — waste, cheating, lying, cruelty — and says they result from a "wrong attitude ... an evil heart."

"I'm aware that psychological jargon can be employed which relates many of them to peculiarities of conditioning, special inhibitions, interactional incompatibilities and a dozen other technical constructs. I wouldn't dispute these. I just don't think they lead to proper steps for correction."

He says psychoanalysts don't use the word "sin" because of its "strong reproachful quality," but they believe that qualities of aggression and self-destruction are evil because they oppose the life principle.

He suggests the word "hate" as the composite term for sin, and adds: "In terms of action, the long-term consequences of hate are self-destruction. Thus the wages of sin really are death."

Concordia names new acting chief, faculty

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The board of control of strife-torn Concordia Seminary has appointed a new acting president and approved a list of 14 new faculty members.

Named top administrator of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's largest school this week was the Rev. Dr.

Preus said acceptance of the Seminex students could precipitate a constitutional crisis within the synod and each district.

But officials at Seminex said they were going ahead with plans to let individual congregations of the 3-million-member synod call ministerial candidates directly from Seminex. A spokesman said there already were tentative commitments for placing 50 of the graduating students immediately and the rest by July 1.

Böhlmann, 42, is a graduate of the synod's St. John's and Concordia colleges. He studied as a Fulbright Scholar at Heidelberg University in Germany for two years and attended Yale University graduate school during 1966, 1967 and 1968 while a member of the Concordia faculty.

Ralph A. Böhlmann, who has been serving as executive secretary of the synod's Commission on Theology and Church Relations.

He succeeds as acting president the Rev. Dr. Martin H. Scharlemann, who quit in April because of what he called "nervous exhaustion."

The suspension of Dr. John H. Tietjen as Concordia president in January on charges of malfeasance and permitting false doctrine to be taught led to the firing of 42 of the school's 45 faculty members and a walkout by about 400 of Concordia's 450 resident students.

The dissident students and fired teachers set up what they call Concordia Seminary in Exile (Seminex) at two other St. Louis-area theological schools.

"My immediate concern will be to somehow contact the graduating Seminex students and encourage them to go along with a proposal for placing them through certification by the Concordia faculty," Böhlmann said.

But most of 104 ministerial candidates voted Tuesday to seek alternative methods of placement, saying if they acceded to Böhlmann's proposal it

Seminex students shun interviews

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The pastoral candidates of Concordia Seminary-in-Exile (Seminex) have unanimously declared their willingness to serve parishes of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, but have declined to participate in interviews with the faculty of Concordia Seminary to achieve certification for a parish ministry.

Approximately two-thirds of the 109 future pastors also received tentative assignments in the synod this week.

The candidates' action, in effect, places them outside the placement process established at a recent meeting of the synod's Council of District Presidents. The council serves as a board of assignments for the synod.

The Seminex candidates stated that "submission of our qualifications for certification to the administration of Concordia would lend endorsement to that administration and thus negate our confessional witness against it."

In the first resolution passed, the candidates had declared they would continue to speak "a strong word of judgment" against the "unjust and unloving" actions which placed the new Concordia administration in power last January and which led to the formation of Seminex in February.

Although declining the Concordia interviews as a matter of "conscience," the candidates "are willing at any time to make a profession of faith and to witness to the hope that lies within us."

The placement process established by the Council of Presidents at a meeting earlier this month would have given the final right to certify or to deny certification to the Concordia administration. The council also had allowed for an intermediary five-man interview committee for those who declined Concordia interviews "for confessional reasons," but Concordia's acting administrative officer Dr. Robert Preus had stated after the council meeting that no Seminex students could receive Concordia certification without an interview. The candidates had already been certified by the Seminex faculty.

The Seminex candidates' resolutions stated, "An interview with the special committee of the Council of Presidents would be fruitless since the interview committee does not have the final disposition of our certification."

Candidates who received tentative assignments this week must rely on congregations to exercise their right to call candidates apart from established synodical procedures.

Spring celebration

The youth of St. Therese Catholic Church and their friends gathered to celebrate spring last Sunday with a special "Awakening to Spring" mass, which was planned by the parish freshmen youth group. Feelings of spring were expressed by various students and the Rev. J.L. Bestler during the sermon. Signs of new life accepted at the offertory included a new plant, a small puppy and a baby. Above, Steve Rossmessl hands the wine to Bestler at the offertory. (Post-Crescent photo)

Four teachers in two Appleton Catholic schools have been chosen outstanding elementary teachers of America for 1974.

They are Sister Karen Suhr, Mrs. Charlotte Rossmessl and Miss Donna Alferi of St. Therese Catholic School and Sister Mary Jo Bongert of St. Thomas More Catholic School.

They were nominated by their principals earlier this year and were selected to be honored on the basis of their professional and civic achievements.

Outstanding elementary teachers of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional services, achievements and leadership in the field of elementary education. Each year, the biographies of those honored are featured in the awards volume, "Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America." Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

The four women now are eligible to receive the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of the Year award trophy. Five $500 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five outstanding elementary teachers.

Distinguished judges and the board of advisers of the Outstanding Elementary Teachers of America program will select the five individual instructors to be honored. In this way, the program thanks the teachers and their schools for their contributions to the continuing excellence of American education.

Parish council, school board duties defined

Post-Crescent news service

GREEN BAY — A resolution defining the relationships between parish councils, parish boards of education and area boards of education was approved this week by the Green Bay Diocesan Board of Education.

According to the resolution, the parish council serves as the coordinating and unifying structure of the parish community and "establishes broad goals, sets priorities and makes decisions concerning the total parish."

Parish boards of education, according to the approved definition, are "responsible for the total educational ministry in the parish," including adult and youth programs.

Area boards of education "function as policy-making bodies responsible for the total educational mission of the church in the area." The parish board is empowered with budgetary control of area boards.

The resolution also said that consolidation boards are responsible "for the educational mission in the school program."

Two other related resolutions were passed at the board meeting. One defined the function of parish boards of education and the other explained the workings of area boards of education. An amendment to the resolution defining the responsibilities of area boards made implementation dependent on consultation with the planning commission of the Green Bay Diocese.

All three resolutions will be sent to the commission.

How politics work

Politics remains a most complicated game. Why, for example, would interests which oppose Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., support Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.?

Well, according to the magazine New Times, the banking industry has dropped at least $20,000 into the campaign coffers of Fulbright, who is facing a tough primary against Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

If Fulbright loses, then Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., is in line for the chairmanship of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which Fulbright has headed for years.

And to take the gavel of the Foreign Relations Committee, Sparkman will leave the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. And who is in line for that chairmanship? You guessed it: our own Bill Proxmire, who is thought to be more liberal than Sparkman and is therefore a worry to the banking industry. So the bankers seek to oppose Proxmire and keep Sparkman in place by supporting Fulbright.

You can't tell the players without a program.

Bauxite diplomacy

The United States has practically no bauxite, the ore from which aluminum is made. It's just one of the items for which we are going to have to pay more.

The world's largest supplier of bauxite is Jamaica, conveniently located for the United States in comparison with the other major suppliers, Australia, Yugoslavia and even Guyana, Guinea and Surinam. Jamaica ships most of its exported bauxite to the United States although it has contracts with other industrial nations. It has contracts in which "unilateral imposition of taxes" is not supposed to happen.

But apparently it will. The government in Jamaica has announced that "world terms of trade have changed so drastically and mercilessly against countries like Jamaica that the situation morally approximates a legal right to cancel a contract because of acts of God or enemies of state." Prime Minister Michael Manley has proposed what would amount to a six-fold jump in tax levies on bauxite exports. The proposals must be approved by Parliament which is now in session. United States and Canada have protested the new tax levies and are negotiating but quite obviously Jamaica will be able to set its price.

Nor is the new tax levy isolated. The other bauxite producing nations will quite likely raise their own export charges since Jamaica is not alone in being hard hit by drastic oil price increases and shortages of food. Jamaica has been pushing for an international organization similar to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries which so ably enabled the Arab nations to stock together in their dealings with the industrial world.

A shortage of aluminum or drastically higher prices for it will not cause as much disruption on the surface in the United States. There are more available substitutes than there are for oil and gas. But the change in Jamaica will mean increased costs, not only for kitchen equipment and ornamental fixtures but in building costs. It is just one more pressure toward higher costs and the inflationary spiral.

Famine in the Sahara

Warnings about the dangers of immense famine in parts of Sahara Africa continue to mount. The latest near-despairing report came from United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim.

After a partial tour of the area, Waldheim said that "peoples and countries could disappear from the face of the map. This region has not seen such a disaster in two centuries." An almost unprecedented drought over the last decade is the main determining factor. Meanwhile the more fortunate areas and peoples of the world try to help out.

That is, some of them do.

The United States has contributed more than a third of the about $350 million in food, money, and services to the stricken areas in addition to some air lifts. Western Europe has come up with almost a third. The United Nations as a whole has given about 7 per cent and the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization has handled the larger contributions from the United States, France, West Germany, Canada, China, Nigeria and Russia. Then Libya gave $760,000 and Kuwait $300,000. What about the other oil rich nations of the Middle East forever prating about the selfish capitalists in the United States and Western Europe and who are not even too happy with the Soviet Union?

Nothing.

Saudia Arabia took in almost $5 billion—that's right—billion—last year in oil revenues. Iran had $4 billion and is expected to nearly quadruple that to $15 billion this year. Tiny Abu Dhabi picked up $7 billion (or $23,000 per capita). Libya and Kuwait did give a bit but their combined oil income was about $5 billion.

No one can really criticize the Arab countries for joy over the riches oil is bringing them. They were exploited for a number of years. A great many Arabs live in deep poverty and perhaps the new sources will raise standards of living generally throughout those countries. In fact, regardless of current ruling classes, it is bound to, as pressures for a share build from below.

But in the meantime what of the starving people in the Sahara? Even the Arab League's proposal to make borrowing terms easier and raising the capital of the Arab Bank for Economic Development in Africa is a long range plan which won't help the millions who will very likely starve to death in the meantime.

Flammable uniforms for firemen

Until quite recently firemen in New York City didn't wear specified uniforms. Usually they did stick to dark blue trousers and lighter blue work shirts. But then an eight year study of the situation was made. Why it took so long on such a relatively unimportant matter has not been explained. But the recommendation was for a specific uniform of medium dark blue shirt and trousers, made out of polyester and cotton and sold by departmental supply stores.

The firemen didn't like the new outfits. They began to complain that they looked like service station attendants. The grumbles grew but more recently took on a new tone. The uniforms, some of the men complained, were highly flammable. Obviously that was adding to an occupational hazard.

However, advocates of the uniform insist that the material in the clothing meets the federal flammability standards. In the tests, five samples are exposed to flame. If the material ignites within one second and the flames spread over it in less than four seconds, it flunks.

Nevertheless department officials are reconsidering the uniforms. It really doesn't matter if it takes more than a second to catch fire if the firemen fighting blazes believe that their clothing is particularly dangerous.

Small group of legislators write laws

MADISON—Major enactments of the Wisconsin Legislature are being achieved through means that the constitutional fathers never devised and probably would have found it difficult to accept.

The conference committee, so-called in the rules of the legislature as they evolved since 1849, is more used and more important in the accommodation of legislative pressures and differences today than ever before in the history of the commonwealth—although it appears likely that many constituents of that legislature who learned the fundamentals of government in the classroom are uncertain about what the description means.

That probable uncertainty of the meaning of a rule of parliamentary procedure is the reason why the public press tends to use the more familiar and understandable phrase "compromise committee."

The conference committee is a confession by the two houses of the legislature, as they consent to the invocation of the process, that they are hopelessly at loggerheads on a bill and must therefore resort to emergency methods to resolve their interhouse dispute.

The most celebrated instances of the use of that emergency proceeding in recent times has been in breaking the deadlocks on successive budget and revenue bills, without which orderly government could have been threatened with paralysis.

More of such standoffs have occurred in the present special session of the legislature. Several came during the protracted regular session. Usually the resort to the two-house compromise committee is greeted with relief by the attending press, the involved bureaucracy, perhaps some elements of the public, and surely by the legislators themselves.

Indeed, the ennu and the personal inconvenience that result from a protracted and stubborn dispute between the houses on the details of a major proposition have led to the acceptance of the mechanism with more readiness and less sense of apology or failure than ever before.

The other day after three days of inconclusive deliberation and tedious voting in the Senate, the legislature's upper house returned to the Assembly a version of a campaign finance regulation bill that every member knew would be rejected out of hand there, even as the senators had spurned the original edition evolved in the Assembly. As reporters examined the curious roll calls of the Senate, they were reminded that the record was really not significant.

The final bill would be written in the conference committee, a select handful of members of each house, representing perhaps less than a 10 per cent slice of the electorate involved.

Given the frailties of human nature and the peculiarly deep antagonisms of the partisans in this strange year, such resort to extraordinary measures perhaps cannot be avoided.

Yet there are heavy costs, in the view of those who have a serious concern about the traditions of representative government. In the nature of the rule, the conference committee report must be inviolable. It cannot be changed by a humble comma, or it collapses.

The result is that a handful of legislators elected by a small slice of the whole state population imposes its will, or resolves that the dispute is irreconcilable, which also has a finality.

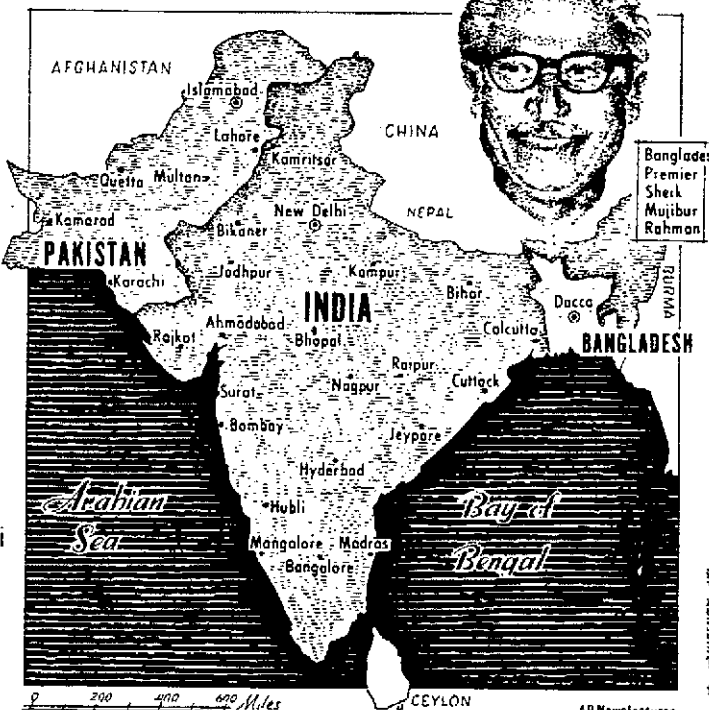

Another result is that the overwhelming majority of the members of each house can escape direct accountability. It was not what he wanted, a legislator can and does say, but it was the best he could get. It had some good provisions, he may say, but his negative vote was based on the inadequate provisions.

For the reflective onlooker it is a dangerous trend, as exhibited in the new state budget which is less understood by the men who made it law than any other in history—because it was a hastily enacted conference report.

RESULT OF TRIPARTITE AGREEMENT

The final batch was welcomed home without fanfare because of Bangladesh charges that some had committed war atrocities

Settlement is also reported near on the issue of non-Bengali Moslems who want to migrate to Pakistan

Last of Pakistani POW'S released

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last of the Pakistanis captured by India during the 1971 war over Bangladesh have come home, without fanfare, ending a mammoth repatriation operation that lasted seven months and freed 89,981 men.

The commander who carried out the surrender of Pakistani forces on Dec. 6, 1971, Lt. Gen. Amir Abdullah Khan, was at his own request, the last to be freed. The final batch, released from camps scattered over India, also included three major generals, eight brigadiers and 12 civilians.

There was a reason for the low key reception accorded the last 734 repatriates. The group included 195 prisoners originally charged by Bangladesh authorities with committing atrocities during the war. The 195 were given their freedom after Pakistan issued a public apology for any war crimes its soldiers might have committed during the 1971 conflict. Pakistan said it was prepared to take "appropriate action" against any POWs responsible for atrocities. The names of the 195 accused have never been made public.

Freedom for the 195 prisoners was agreed upon at a meeting of the foreign ministers of India, Pakistan and Bangladesh held in New Delhi.

Informed sources said the ministers were also closer to agreement on the problem of non-Bengali Moslems or Biharis, who want to migrate from Bangladesh to Pakistan. A Bangladesh spokesman said Pakistan has agreed to review the cases of all Biharis whose repatriation it had earlier rejected. Pakistan claims it has already approved 140,000 non-Bengalis for repatriation, but Bangladesh says another 400,000 want to migrate. Of more than 90,000 people from Bangladesh who have already arrived in Pakistan, 10,000 are without relatives in that land.

The Biharis sided with the Pakistani army in its attempt to crush the majority Bengali independence movement which was led by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, now the Bangladesh prime minister. After the fighting ended in victory for the Bengalis, thousands of non-Bengalis opted to live in Pakistan. Similarly, an airlift for 120,000 Bengalis in Pakistan who wanted a new life in Bangladesh was recently completed.

Detroit site for world energy talk

DETROIT (AP)—Experts from 55 nations will meet here this fall to see what can be done to help solve the world's future energy problems.

The Ninth World Energy Conference (Sept. 22-27) will draw some 4,500 persons, including influential government ministers, economists, scientists, engineers, educators and executives in the energy industry. Specialists from some 45 member nations will prepare some 250 technical papers for advance placement with the registrants. More than 3,000 delegates will come from foreign countries, 20 per cent from various government agencies. The balance will come from utilities and industries involved in the production and transmission of energy.

The world group headquartered in London was founded in 1924 and is composed of national chapters in 69 countries. Its only other conference held in the U.S. was convened in Washington D.C. in 1936. It will cost about $2 million to stage the latest meeting, most of which will come from registration fees and contributions from companies and industries.

White House feels time on its side

Anybody who wants to understand the latest Watergate legal maneuvers should consider a recent study by the Democratic leadership of how the Senate is likely to vote on impeachment.

The analysis shows that support for the President is slim, but that it could pick up enormously if the impeachment vote came after the election this November. The analysis thus confirms the impression that the basic White House strategy is to play for time.

The study was made by the office of Lloyd Bentsen, the Texas Democrat who is organizing the 1974 senatorial elections for his party. According to the analysis of Sen. Bentsen's office, there are only 16 Senators considered sure to vote for Mr. Nixon.

Seven are Southerners—James Allen of Alabama, Harry Byrd of Virginia, James Eastland of Mississippi and John McClellan of Arkansas on the Democratic side; and Edward Gurney of Florida, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and William Scott of Virginia on the Republican side.

Seven are conservative Republicans from the less populated states of the West—Carl Curtis and Roman Hruska of Nebraska, Barry Goldwater and Paul Fannin of Arizona, James McClure of Idaho, Clifford Hansen of Wyoming and Hiram Fong of Hawaii. Two—William Roth of Delaware and Norris Cotton of New Hampshire—are small-state Republicans from the East.

With only 16 hard-core votes, the President is going to have to scramble hard to put together the 34 votes needed to hold office. But there are six Republican Senators up for reelection who, while under strong pressure to go against Mr. Nixon if the vote came before polling day, might turn around if their fates had already been decided.

Marlow Cook of Kentucky is a good example. He faces very strong opposition from a popular governor, Wendell Ford. The Senator has already felt obliged to condemn the President for the White House transcripts, and it is hard to see how he can stand up for Mr. Nixon if the vote was before election day. But once he was either reelected or defeated, it would be much easier for him to support Mr. Nixon.

Milton Young of North Dakota provides another case in point. He is relying on his reputation for integrity to carry him through against a strong challenge from former Democratic Gov. William Guy. Sen. Young has already felt constrained to suggest that Mr. Nixon step down under the 25th Amendment while the impeachment proceeding is on, and a vote for Mr. Nixon could cost him his Senate seat. But after the election, his normally conservative instinct could come into play on behalf of the President.

Robert Dole of Kansas and Peter Dominick of Colorado fit pretty much the same mold. Then there are two liberal Republicans, Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and Robert Packwood of Oregon. Neither could hold his constituency if he voted for Mr. Nixon before election. But once assured of office, or certain of defeat, they might be tempted by consideration of party solidarity or personal advantage to stay with Mr. Nixon.

Delay makes sense

In these conditions, the White House has the most solid motives for tying up the impeachment in procedural delay. The refusal to surrender subpoenaed tapes to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski is entirely consistent with that interest. In defending the refusal, White House counsel James St. Clair has used a highly technical argument which raises the question of whether a federal prosecutor going against the President has standing in court. The case will probably have to go to the Supreme Court before an authoritative decision can be reached.

That would involve a delay of months perhaps. The delay would have been even longer if the Senate Judiciary Committee had moved to hold hearings

Looking back Temperance women rail at Woodhull

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, May 7, 1874.

To the Editors of the Post: The Women of the Temperance Union, having been credibly informed of the character of the lecture delivered in this city (Appleton), by that shameless woman, Victoria Woodhull, and feeling deeply and outrage brought to our community by the persons who invited her here to inflict her base doctrines on the public, passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That we regard the teachings of this person as vile and dangerous in the extreme, tending to uproot the first principles of society and government, and to produce gross immorality and anarchy. The wicked attacks upon Christianity and Christ, upon the sacredness of the marriage tie, and upon all sentiments of purity, move us to indignant denunciation, are ashamed of her as one of our sex.

We earnestly remonstrate to the press against endorsing her in any way, and to the public against countenancing the sentiments and influence of this degraded woman. —By Order of the Committee.

Britain seeks to end strike in N. Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Merlyn Rees, Britain's chief administrator for Northern Ireland, returned here today with plans to break the 11-day-old general strike that has brought the province to a standstill. Local political leaders were convinced the British government would order troops to begin moving essential supplies such as gas and oil before nightfall. But Protestant militants behind the strike threatened an immediate electric power blackout if the soldiers were called in.

Tension mounted as terrorists, apparently enforcing the strike, bombed two Belfast service stations that were open in defiance of the work ban.

Other terrorists rampaged through the towns of Ballymena and Balleymoney Friday evening, smashing bars and cafes. Two Roman Catholics were fatally shot in Ballymena.

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson held an emergency meeting of his cabinet for 2½ hours Friday and was reported determined to crush the militants, who have blocked food and fuel shipments and crippled industry.

Before the cabinet meeting, a terse government statement repeated London's refusal to negotiate "on constitutional or political matters with anybody seeking to operate outside the established constitutional framework."

One report indicated doubts were raised at the cabinet session about the willingness of British troops to act as strikebreakers.

Strike leaders, calling themselves the Ulster Workers Council, vowed to continue their strike until Britain offers new provincial elections and an end to the Sunningdale Agreement, which would set up an Irish council with representatives from Ulster and the Catholic-dominated Irish Republic. Militant Protestants see the council as a first step toward merging the two states.

Despite the economic dislocation caused by the strike, Workers Council member Henry Murray vowed "the people of Ulster will eat grass" before the strikers give in.

Men can't be charged with prostitution

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee County Judge Terence Evans Friday ruled that men cannot be charged with prostitution under Wisconsin law.

Dismissing charges against a 21-year-old Milwaukee man, Evans said state law makes prostitution illegal for women but makes no mention of men in the statutes.

He said he personally feels the law is discriminatory for women, but added that courts must continue to enforce prostitution laws against women until the state law is changed or declared unconstitutional in a higher court.

Dist. Atty. E. Michael McCann, whose office recently began charging men who commit sexual acts for money with prostitution instead of the usual disorderly conduct, said he will appeal the ruling.

McCann said Milwaukee has been experiencing a serious law enforcement problem in the last five years because of men selling their services. He said the cases generally involve homosexual relationships.

Evans' ruling dismissed charges against Charles McGhee, who was charged April 3 with soliciting an undercover police officer.

Dana Brooks, a legal aid attorney who represented McGhee, said the case of Calvin Thrower, the first male to be convicted of prostitution in Milwaukee County in February, would now be appealed.

Eisenhowers moving from Rebozo home to city apartment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie and David Eisenhower are giving up their suburban home for a duplex apartment in the city.

Their previous landlord, President Nixon's friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, has sold the house they rented in Bethesda, Md.

The White House said Tuesday that the couple wants to live in the city so David will be closer to the George Washington University Law School and Julie will be nearer the airport, which she uses to fly to Indianapolis for her part-time job with the Curtis Publishing Co.

The Eisenhowers plan to move into the $409-a-month two-bedroom apartment at Columbia Plaza next month. The complex is located near the Watergate apartments.

They had lived in the three-bedroom brick rambler home in Bethesda, since the spring of 1973. A White House spokesman said that, in addition to commuting problems, the couple had been too busy to enjoy the house.

Woman has pity on man who blinded her

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Riss, blinded 15 years ago by men hired by rejected suitor Burton Pugach, now says she wants Pugach's right to practice law restored.

"I am informed he was disbarred from the practice of law as a result of his acts concerning me, and not concerning any client," said Miss Riss, 37, in a federal court affidavit.

"I respectfully join in any application by him to any court or otherwise that his order of disbarment be set aside and that he be permitted to practice law again."

Pugach, 47, hired two men to throw lye in Miss Riss' face in 1959. In a federal lawsuit, he said he did so "with the irrational motive to blind and scar her so no one else would want her and she would have to return to him."

Pugach was released from prison March 21, after serving 14 years of a 30-year sentence.

He will offer a mass of thanksgiving for the people of the Appleton area at 1 p.m. June 23 at Monte Alverno. An informal reception will follow the mass.

Released time topic for clergy

"Religious Education During School Hours" will be the topic at a breakfast meeting of the Appleton Area Clergy Association at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday at the Appleton YMCA.

The clergy association, with assistance from Appleton School District administrators, has begun to plan for the possible release of students during school hours for religious education.

Wednesday's session will review state regulations and local concerns about released-time classes and suggest possible activities for parishes to consider over the summer in preparation for further action in the fall.

The meeting is open to clergymen and lay representatives from interested Appleton and outlying congregations.

2 Neenah churches set weekend witchcraft film

NEENAH — "The Occult," a film designed to stir up sentiment against the practice of witchcraft and to expose Satanic power, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. today at the Alpha Chapel, 502 S. Commercial St., and at 7 p.m. Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church, 140 Bell St.

Author Hal Lindsey guides viewers to the world of the occult, declaring it to be not just a passing fad but a vital part of the continuing struggle of Satan to usurp the throne of God.

The color film was written by Marshall Riggan and produced by the Evangelical Christian Research Foundation. It is open to the public.

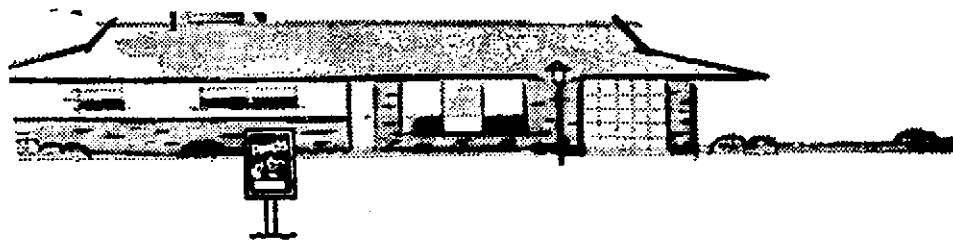

First English slates movie, 'Man of Steel'

"Man of Steel," a film of social and spiritual significance, will be shown at 9:15 a.m. Sunday and June 2 at First English Lutheran Church, 326 E. North St.

The 80-minute, color movie features a young teen-ager seeking identity in an affluent world and his father, co-owner of one of North America's greatest industrial complexes, who pauses long enough to break pace and look squarely at himself. He and his wife suddenly discover that their son is long beyond the age of innocence.

The movie is open to the public.

Pencil, paper game requires fast action

BY CAPPY DICK

The name of today's new pencil-and-paper word game is "Duplicates." It gets this name from the fact that if two or more players use the same write on his paper another word made up of some or all of the six letters.

When this has been done, the players must sign their names on their papers and turn them in to the teacher (Figure 2) who examines them to see if any players must drop out of the game. If two or more contestants write the same word they are out. The players allowed to remain are those who wrote words different from any others. In Figure 1, Mary and James must quit because both used the word "try."

The teacher calls out another word and a second round begins. This continues until there are only two players remaining, in which case they are the winners. It is also possible for the game to end with no players at all if, in the final round, all who remain use the same word and thus must drop out.

The teacher explains the players will not be allowed to talk to each other during the game and may not otherwise compare notes. He also says each player must study the word "sentry" and secretly

Summerfest '74 talent announced

MILWAUKEE — Singers Charley Pride, Gladys Knight and the Pips, pop nostalgia group Sha Na Na and Helen Reddy will be headline performers at the main stage during four days of Summerfest '74, July 12-21.

Charley Pride will perform at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m., Saturday, July 13.

Gladys Knight and the Pips will perform at 8 p.m., Thursday, July 18.

Sha Na Na, a group that recreates the golden age of top 40 tunes will appear at 8 p.m., Friday, July 19.

Helen Reddy will give two shows, at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m., Sunday, July 21, the last day of Summerfest '74.

Summerfest officials had previously announced appearances by the Doc Severinsen Orchestra from the NBC Tonight Show, Monday, July 14, and by Peter Nero appearing with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, Tuesday, July 16.

Pride, one of the top artists in the country music field, has appeared in Milwaukee many times and has a large following here. He performed at Summerfest in 1972.

Last year Pride was one of the main entertainment attractions at the Wisconsin State Fair. He has been an annual celebrity participant in the Vince Lombardi Memorial Golf Classic in Menomonee Falls. In 1971 the country music association named Pride "Entertainer of the Year," and he was named "Male Vocalist of the Year" by the association in 1972. Pride has received two by the association in 1972. Pride has received two Grammys, the top award of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, and has consistently taken top honors in polls taken by the music business trade magazines. Also appearing as part of the Pride Show will be Ronnie Milsap, a blind country music recording artist, and the Four Guys, widely known in the country field for their fine backup work behind many top artists.

Gladys Knight and the Pips, for years regarded as one of the top soul groups in the world, have recently won wider recognition. The group has received two Grammys, one for "Neither One of Us" (winner as Best Pop Vocal Performance By a Duo, Group or Chorus), the other for "Midnight Train to Georgia" (Best Rhythm & Blues Performance By a Duo, Group or Chorus). The group also has had a number of top selling albums and the recent No. 1 single record, "You're the Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me."

Sha Na Na, which appeared last in Milwaukee in February and has been a headline act at the Wisconsin State Fair, is a group of musical performers who dance, sing and play the nostalgic rock 'n roll sounds of the late '50s and early '60s. The group has had television guest spots on the Flip Wilson and Bill Cosby shows and the John Lennon/Yoko Ono "1-2-1 Special." The group attracted a reported 45,000 persons to their appearance at the 1973 Wisconsin State Fair.

Helen Reddy was born to a show business family in Australia and had appeared on a family radio show as a child before beginning her own singing-acting career at the age of 15. In 1966, she came to the United States and began playing a series of one night stands, small fairs and shows. Her first record release, "I Don't Know How to Love Him," was a hit. It was followed by "I Am Woman" which firmly established the 33 year old singer as the leader of the new wave of female singers, including Carly Simon, Rita Coolidge and Carole King.

Experts' bids, plays often make no sense

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Hundreds of bridge experts from all parts of North America are planning to play in the national tournament in New York, July 12-21. If you watch the tournament reports you'll see bids and plays that wouldn't make sense in ordinary rubber bridge.

Take this sort of hand, for example. There's only one right way to play it at rubber bridge, but life isn't so easy for the tournament player.

In ordinary bridge your first duty is to make sure of the contract. Your best chance is to play the hearts by leading out the king and then the ace. If the queen drops (as it does) you have no further problem.

If the queen of hearts fails to drop, you can lead dummy's last heart back toward your hand. Then you will win a third heart trick if East has the queen or if the hearts break 3-3. You fail only if West has four or more hearts headed by the queen — in which case you were doomed from the start.

EXTRA TRICK
The best play for 10 tricks is to lead a low heart to dummy's ace and then return a heart to finessse with the jack. This produces the extra trick if East has started with Q-x-x of hearts.

The greedy line of play costs you the contract if West has started with Q-x-x of hearts. At rubber bridge you are willing to give up the chance for an extra trick, worth only 30 points, to improve your chance for the game.

In a tournament, however, the extra trick often means the difference between a good and a bad score. You must usually play for everything that isn't nailed down — even if you occasionally lose a cold game or slam in the attempt to make a 30-point over-trick.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with 2 NT, and the next player passes. You hold: S-K 7 6 4 H-Q 4 D-Q 10 9 4 C-7 5 2. What do you say?
ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards. If he bids spades, you will raise; otherwise you will go to three notrump. (Copyright 1974)

Gripping suspense story

7:30 - 9 — Channels 9-11 — "ABC Suspense Movie" has "Dying Room Only." While a bit long, it is nevertheless a gripping, classic suspense with a few very tense climactic moments. Filmed in the California desert, this has Cloris Leachman and Dabney Coleman as man and wife, driving home from Arizona and stopping at a roadside diner. He vanishes and the diner's two occupants, Ross Martin and Ned Beatty, are menacing and close-mouthed. (R)

7 - 7:30 — Channels 9-11 — "The Partridge Family" places an ad for a maid. Shirley (Shirley Jones) finds that her mother (Rosemary DeCamp) is applying for the position because of a quarrel with Shirley's father (Jackie Coogan). Shirley's attempt to reconcile her parents divides the family into a battle of the sexes. (R)

7 - 8 — Channel 5 — "Emergency!" has Gage and DeSoto (Randolph Mantooth and Kevin Tighe) inheriting an estate from an old lady. How much will they get? Rescues include a high-powered businessman worried more about making money than a possible heart attack. (R)

7:30 - 8 — Channels 2-7 — "Mash" has another funny episode with our heroes performing surgery on a general's son and getting a three-day pass in Tokyo as a reward. But when they return, they find their place has become formal, with an "Officers Only" club, and they have to try to change that. (R)

9 - 10 — Channels 9-11 — "Owen Marshall, Counselor-At-Law" goes to a small town at the request of a friend. A young woman the man cares about has been committed to a mental hospital, by parents who feel that her promiscuity is a sign of mental illness. Some strong points about mental institutions are made in Marshall's courtroom summation. (R)

9 - 10 — Channels 2-7 — "The Carol Burnett Show" has Carl Reiner as the sole guest. With Carol he plays a husband to an accident-prone wife in a restaurant. There is also "Ballet

Folklorico" version of "Little Red Riding Hood" with Carl as a bull instead of a wolf, Harvey Korman as a grand father and Lyle Waggoner as a woodsman. (R)

Foxes win fourth straight

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent sports editor

Timely hitting, which was conspicuous by its absence in the Appleton Foxes' painfully-slow start this season, keyed them to a fourth straight victory Friday night at Goodland Field.

Larry Foster hit a 2-run single, Eric Thomas unloaded a run-scoring triple and Larry Walters drilled a 2-run double as the Foxes overcame a 4-0 deficit to trim Cedar Rapids, 7-4.

It was also a notable night for south-paw Tom King, who achieved his first victory of the season with three innings of near-flawless relief pitching. At 7:30 p. m. today, the Foxes and the Astros begin the second and final game of their series.

After 4 and 1/2 innings last night, the outlook couldn't have been much darker for the Foxes. Not only did Cedar Rapids hold a 4-0 lead, but lefty Bob Renninger had held Appleton to one hit—a second inning single by George Enright. Then, the pieces began falling into place for the Foxes, who in the last week have lifted their record from 6-17 to 10-17.

Thomas led off with a walk in the bottom of the fifth, but pitcher Barry Smith struck out and Clyde Jeter flied out. Nick Medrano singled Thomas to third, then took second on a wild pitch. Foster's smash to left field cut the Astros' lead in half, to 4-2.

Appleton whittled away at the lead some more in the sixth. Mike Wolf beat out a 2-out single to short. Thomas pased a line shot into right center field to score Wolf.

The comeback's climax came in the seventh. With one out, Medrano singled to left, and Foster walked. Walters belted a double to right, scoring Medrano with the tying run, and when there was a little delay on the relay, Foster legged it all the way home from first. Renninger was replaced by Pablo DeLeon. Walters tallied the third run of the inning on an infield out.

The Foxes continued their heads-up base running in the eighth as Jeter scored on a delayed steal, while the Astros were trying to run Medrano down between first and second. Medrano eventually scrambled back safely to first.

Foxes starter "Butch" Stinson yielded six hits in his three innings of work, but only one run scored. That was produced in the second on a sacrifice fly by Alex

Barry Smith, who pitched the middle three innings for Appleton, gave up three runs, but only one was earned. The Astros put across two in the fourth frame on three errors—the game's total output of miscues—a wild pitch and a single. In the fifth, Renninger tripled home a run that was to prove the final offensive gesture for the visitors.

Rafael Tatis singled in the sixth off Smith but was erased in a double play. The only base runner the Astros got off King in the final three innings came as a result of a scratch single in the seventh.

Ships dominate sectional

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent staff writer

Manitowoc wouldn't agree to an early start Friday and as a result the Appleton sectional track meet dragged on past 8 p.m. and temperatures dipped to numbing levels.

The Ships sailed on undaunted to a relatively easy Class A championship in the boys competition and the Manitowoc girls added the girls crown. Sheboygan Falls was overwhelming in the Class B boys meet.

The dispute about an early start arose when the WIAA sent out letters calling for a 5 p.m. start of running events. East meet director Dave Hussey had scheduled the meet for 4 p.m. All teams were present at 4 p.m., but Manitowoc dissented to an earlier start.

With qualifiers in every event, Manitowoc needed that type of depth to win the sectional. Faring best in terms of firsts was Appleton East with Kerry Frank winning both the 100 and 220, John Siebers winning the 880 and Jeff Stracka and Bob Spoo running one-two in the mile. Sophomore Joe Nabbefeld also qualified for the Patriots in the mile.

Neenah, continuing to have problems which plagued it in Tuesday's regional, qualified only two people for next Friday and Saturday's state tournament at Madison's Dwyer Mansfield Stadium. Eric Murphy, a bonafide contender for the Class A mile title, clocked a 4:25.1. The other Rocket qualifier was Alex Maslow who turned a :51.9 quarter in placing second.

Kierly and Menasha failed to qualify anyone for the state meet. Appleton West discus thrower Scott Taylor, experiencing a sub-par day, qualified with a throw of only 148-feet. Taylor had been tossing the platter in the high 150s.

In the Class A girls competition, Appleton West's Mona Siewert captured firsts in the low hurdles (an event she lost in a photo-finish last year at state), the 220 and long jump. She is a contender in all three events, but appears strongest in the lows.

Dick Lohrenz, Hortonville, was a double winner in Class B taking the low hurdles in an 20.7 seconds and the highs in :15.15.

Qualifiers for Neenah, which trailed Manitowoc 32-36 in the girls meet were: Kathy Bues, discus, Becky Prey, 100; Jill Willerson, mile; Barb Nault, 880 and the medley relay of Shelly Stilp, Patti Derfus, Sandy Smith and Jill Willerson.

Kimberly qualified miler Sue Davies and its 880 relay of Denise Chalupa, Sue Jansen, Kay Hammen and Jean Oudenhoven.

Qualifying for Appleton West, in addition to Siewert, was sophomore Judy Winski in the 100 and long jump. Appleton East, with 18 points, failed to qualify anyone.

Little Chute's sole qualifier in the Class B boys meet was Gary Vandenberg who took second in the mile. Randy Bain, second in the 220, was the only Hortonville qualifier other than Lohrenz—who looms as a strong contender in the B hurdle events.

Gene Darkow, Winneconne, qualified in the pole vault, and the Omro mile relay of Don Wier, Ed Egan, Bob Sayler and Bob Mossak qualified.

Frank, breaking quickly from the blocks, beat off Sheboygan North's Steve Scharrer in both the 100 and 220. Scharrer made a strong bid in the 220, but Frank had more than a stride advantage in the century.

East's Nabbefeld, a sophomore, and Neenah's Murphy staged another battle in the mile—the third within a week. The outcome has always been the same as the script varies little. Murphy takes the lead and Nabbefeld hangs off his hip until the gun lap, when the Rocket runner opens the lead to 10 or 15 yards. Friday, Manitowoc's Todd Herbert varied the story as he was the one who pushed Murphy earlier before succumbing to the strong pace of the Rocket miler.

Another race which has used the same script through the Fox Valley Association, regional and sectional meets is the two mile. Appleton East senior Jeff Stracka, fifth at state last year, and teammate Bob Spoo, a junior, run stride for stride and steadily wear down the field in developing a two-man race. Stracka has won both times he began an early kick on a faster race, while Spoo won the regional title in a slower race when Stracka held back until the final 220 and was unable to beat off his teammate's strong finish.

Sue Davies, Kimberly, keeps pace with the leaders and then storms past the field on the final 300 yards in winning the mile. Friday, she had to move to the outside coming out of the bend of the first turn before making her move. She moved ahead at the 220 mark and out ran the field.

John Siebers, Appleton East, appeared to hit his stride in the 880 Friday running a sub-58 seconds on the first 440 and finishing in 1:58 flat. Siebers, who also ran on the mile relay, seemed more relaxed and rose to the pressure against three sub 2-minute half milers.

Siewert, who has seldom been pushed this year, barely edged Lynn Holbrook, Plymouth, at the wire in the 220 in one of the closest finishes of the day.

Xavier '9' loses in extra inning

RACINE—Pitching trouble began brewing for unbeaten Appleton Xavier at a most inopportune time—during the opener of the Wisconsin Independent Schools Athletic Association baseball tournament Friday. Before the Hawks could get control, Stevens Point Pacelli walked off with a 3-2 victory.

With the score tied at the end of the seventh at 1-1, Pacelli's Paul Klysmith started the extra inning with a single. Mike Manchekki advanced Klysmith as he was hit by a pitch and Matt Cluck put Klysmith in scoring position with his walk. The first of Pacelli's two runs in the inning came in on a wild pitch. A single by Jeff Schuh brought in Manchekki, which turned out to be the winning run.

In Xavier's turn, Dick Boya's two bagger and a Tom Floodstrand single which him in sent extra weren't to

Brewers fall out of lead

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox were back on top in the American League East for the first time in a month, and they liked the feeling.

"I'm happy to be in first place because it means we're winning ball games," Boston Manager Darrell Johnson said Friday night after the Red Sox posted their sixth consecutive victory with a 5-3 decision over the Milwaukee Brewers.

"At this stage, though, that's about all it means," Johnson added. "It's a long season. There's a long, long way to go."

The opener of the three-game weekend series with Milwaukee actually ended early today, after midnight.

The Red Sox management, along with 15,951 fans, waited two hours and 17 minutes for rain to lift. Then things were turned over to the umpires at 9:47 p.m. Exactly 2:41 later, the Red Sox had another victory.

The Red Sox continued on their hitting binge. They collected an even dozen hits off starter Billy Champion and reliever Billy Travers. That gave the team 85 hits, good for 52 runs, in the six-game winning streak, equalling the longest in the league this year.

Boston packed 10 of its 12 hits into the first four innings, with Bernie Carbo and Juan Beniquez hitting solo homers. Then, after Milwaukee had closed to within 5-3 with one out in the fifth, veteran right-hander Dick Drago relieved starter Rick Wise and blanked the Brewers the rest of the way.

Wise, making his first appearance since May 4 because of tendonitis in his right shoulder, allowed five hits and the three Milwaukee runs. Drago surrendered four hits and walked three, but struck out eight while working out of jams in each of the last three innings.

"We've been playing good ball, but tonight we came up short," Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall said after his Brewers were knocked out of first place, falling or -half game behind Boston. "We had our chances, but left a lot of runners on base."

"I was hoping Wise could get through the first and pick up a victory, but it was too important that he was not over-worked," Johnson said. "He threw 75 pitches and we decided he had thrown enough. I'm more than satisfied with his work. And I'm very happy with the way Drago threw the ball."

The Red Sox, who lost 10 of 12 games while being knocked out of first place in late April, sought to extend their winning streak and bolster their hold on the lead today. Boston righthander Reggie Cleveland, 2-4, was named to

Packers sign Buchanon to multi-year pact

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers announced today that cornerback Willie Buchanon, out of action with a broken leg much of last season, has signed a multiple-year contract.

It was the second major announcement of the week for the Packers, who earlier had signed all-pro running back John Brockington to a long-term contract.

Buchanon, like Brockington, had been courted by the fledgling World Football League. But he said "something just told me it was going to fizzle out in due time."

The Packers' first round draft pick in 1972 when he was National Football League defensive rookie of the year, Buchanon broke his leg in the sixth game last season. That set off a Packer nosedive that concluded with a 5-7-2 record.

The turnaround from the 1972 mark of 10-4 was blamed in part on defensive lapses, and the absence of Buchanon played a major role.

Buchanon said he was satisfied with his new Packer agreement, although he said he had "a lot of offers from the World Football League."

"I really wanted to stay with the Packers," he said. "Taking into consideration my leg and being out the year, and not knowing how my leg was going to be, I feel the Packers gave me a fair deal."

Green Bay Coach and General Manager Dan Devine said physicians are sure Buchanon will recover completely from the leg injury.

"Willie is in the premium category with John Brockington, in other words the kind of athlete you build your team around," Devine said. "He's an outstanding young player, and we're glad he has pledged his future to the Packers."

West rallies to win

LITTLE CHUTE — Appleton West erased a 3-run deficit to edge Appleton East, 4-3, and win the sub-regional baseball tournament here Friday afternoon.

East started fast in the first inning, as Kevin Beaudou and LeRoy Matuszak singled and Phil Plamann slammed a 2-run double. Plamann scored on a sacrifice fly.

The Terrors began their rally in the third. They scored on two singles, an error and a fielder's choice.

West tied the game in the fourth.

Tom Emmers walked, Andy Kangas singled, and Kevin Donahue rapped a double to drive both in.

The Terrors won it in the final inning. Karl Skjoldager was safe on an error, stole second, reached third on an error and scored on a fielder's choice.

West's Jack Gurnholt pitched the win, while the Patriots' Plamann was charged with the loss.

Royals dump White Sox

John Mayberry a fighter?
Dick Allen a peacemaker?

Unusual roles for both of them, but those were the parts they played Friday night.

Mayberry, Kansas City's usually mild-mannered first baseman known more for his slugging exploits with a bat rather than his fists, surprisingly became incensed when he was struck just below the right knee by a pitch from Chicago White Sox pitcher Stan Bahnsen. The misguided toss came in the third inning, one inning after Mayberry had tagged Bahnsen for a solo homer.

Mayberry then charged toward the mound, after dropping his bat, and tagged Bahnsen with his fists, landing with both hands, as players from both dugouts and bullpens streamed onto the field.

Finally, the controversial Allen, who has been involved in many fights, including a celebrated slugfest with former Philadelphia teammate Frank Thomas, restrained the angry Mayberry. When order was restored after 10 minutes, Mayberry was ejected but Bahnsen was permitted to remain in the game.

But Bahnsen was the loser to in Kansas City's 4-2 victory.

In other American League games, the Boston Red Sox topped the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3, the Minnesota Twins routed the Texas Rangers 9-0, the Cleveland Indians downed the Detroit Tigers 3-1, the Baltimore Orioles beat the New York Yankees 6-3, and the California Angels edged the Oakland A's 4-3.

Mayberry's homer, his ninth of the season, gave Kansas City a 1-0 lead and the Royals went ahead 3-0 just prior to the brawl on Amos Otis' two-run single.

Mayberry was apologetic about charging at Bahnsen and triggering the free-for-all. "I shouldn't have done it," he said. "I'm sorry. I just forgot about the game. It's the first time I've ever done anything like that."

Bert Blyleven, Minnesota's precocious 23-year-old righthander, pitched a five-hitter for the 20th shutout of his major league career and received home run support from Harmon Killebrew and Larry Hise.

The way Ralph Garr is going this year, he'll hit close to 300. That's not a .300 batting average, but 300 hits.

One of the hottest batters in baseball, Garr added three more hits to his whopping total while leading the Atlanta Braves to a 3-0 decision over the Houston Astros Friday night.

"I'm not satisfied where I'm at," Garr said despite drilling two home runs and a single in boosting his hit total to 73 at the first quarter mark of the season.

Garr's .378 batting average leads the National League, and if he continues at this frantic pace, he'll have about 290 hits for the year.

"That's nothing new with me," said Garr, referring to his hitting streak. "Look back over my life hitting. When I get my hits, they are in bunches. I don't mean three or four hits in a row. I mean in a series of games. I've been hitting that way all my life. Nobody knows anything about it but me, but if I keep going, they'll know."

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Chicago Cubs 1-0; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the New York Mets 4-1; the Montreal Expos trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2; the Cincinnati Reds defeated the San Diego Padres 6-3 and the San Francisco Giants turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-7.

Buzz Capra pitched a three-hitter for Atlanta while getting Garr's splendid support.

Capra, 3-2, in a rare starting role, permitted only singles by Greg Gross in the first inning, Cesar Cedeno in the fourth and Tommy Helms in the eighth. He walked only one batter and struck out four.

It was the first shutout of Capra's career. He once pitched eight innings of shutout ball for the New York Mets in 1972, "but they took me out because I guess they thought I was tired."

Cards 1, Cubs 0

Ted Simmons led off the ninth inning with a double, was sacrificed to third and scored in a run-down to give St. Louis and Sonny Siebert the victory over Chicago.

Simmons scored when pinchhitter Tim McCarver grounded to first baseman Billy Williams and the Cubs left home plate unguarded during the rundown.

Winning pitcher Sonny Siebert, 4-3; tossed a five-hitter while loser Rick Reuschel, 3-5, also allowed five hits.

Jerry Reuss hurled a six-hitter and Willie Stargell drove in one run and scored twice, helping Pittsburgh beat New York.

The left-handed Reuss, in pitching his second straight complete game victory and raising his record to 3-3, gave up his only run in the fifth inning when Don

Expos 4, Phillies 2

Ron Hunt sparked a pair of two-run rallies and Ernie McNally scattered seven hits, leading Montreal over Philadelphia.

Reds 6, Padres 3

Pedro Borbon bailed Don Gullett out of a ninth inning jam, leading Cincinnati out of a four-game losing streak with a decision over San Diego.

Borbon came in after Gullett gave up hits to the first two San Diego batters in the ninth. The reliever loaded the bases with a bunt single and gave up a sacrifice fly before getting a double play.

Giants 8, Dodgers 7

Bobby Bonds and Chris Speier each stroked two-run singles in a seven-run third inning that carried San Francisco over the Los Angeles.

Titans reach nationals

WAVERLY, Iowa (AP) — Wisconsin-Oshkosh defeated Southwest Minnesota 11-8 Friday to capture the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Area 4 championship and advance to the NAIA world series.

The Titans, 27-9, were undefeated in their three tournament games, and will play in the national championships May 31 and June 1 at St. Joseph, Mo.

Pete Koupal and Lynn Held each had three hits, and Koupal and Bob Lenz each collected three runs batted in Friday as the Titans broke from a 5-5 tie with a four-run fifth inning.

Koupal's two-run double highlighted the rally and gave relief pitcher Dennis Pieper the victory.

Southwest Minnesota defeated Buena Vista, Iowa, 8-3 earlier Friday to earn the right to meet Oshkosh in the double-elimination tourney.

Edgewood's Butch Maglio hurls tourney no-hitter

RACINE, Wis. (AP) —Superb pitching and clutch hitting enabled Madison Edgewood, Wisconsin Lutheran, Racine St. Catherine and Stevens Point Pacelli to advance to tonight's semifinals in the Wisconsin Independent Schools Athletic Association baseball tournament.

Butch Maglio tossed a no-hitter to give Edgewood an 8-0 victory over Milwaukee Marquette in Friday's first round.

Lutheran nipped Milwaukee More 1-0 behind Ken Christensen's one-hitter. Eloy Lozano's single gave St. Catherine a 2-1 triumph over Whitefish Bay Dominican in nine innings as Jim Rammelt hurled a two-hitter. And Pacelli edged Appleton Xavier 3-2 in eight innings on Jeff Schuh's run-scoring single.

Maglio struck out seven and walked

Johncock seeks to 'prove something'

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A J. Foyt will be the favorite and defending champion Gordon Johncock part of the silent majority Sunday when 33 cars roar into action for the 58th Indianapolis 500-mile race.

The race is scheduled to get underway at 11 a.m. CDT and the National Weather Service forecast says the Indianapolis Motor Speedway might finally get a break with partly sunny skies, cool temperatures and a very small chance of showers.

The 1973 race was plagued by rain and cold. It was postponed twice and had to be delayed for more than five hours on the day it finally was run.

Last year's race also was a tragic one, with driver "Swede" Savage suffering fatal burns in a crash during his 58th lap; one of his pit crewmen, Armando Teran, was killed when struck by a Speedway emergency vehicle in the pits. Driver Salt Walther was critically burned, along with several spectators, in a crash that aborted the start on the original race day.

Veteran driver Art Pollard had been killed earlier in a crash during practice. Johncock, a short-but-wiry 37-year-old driver, won the 57th edition of Indy when the race was flagged to a halt because of rain after only 133 of the scheduled 200 laps.

Johncock, who now lives in Phoenix, Ariz., was acclaimed by many as the winner of the "Indy 332 1/2," the number of miles he had completed when the race was halted.

Johncock said at that time, "I have been running races for 18 years, a lot of them very frustrating, but this has made it all worth it."

The story goes that winning at Indianapolis is worth $1 million to the driver in name value, commercials and speaking engagements. But one year later, Johncock's image is not notably changed from what it was before: a journeyman driver.

"I guess you could say that last year's race was a tainted victory for me," he said. "But somebody's got to win the tainted races, too."

"I think it was the unfavorable public response to the race that kept me from

Esquire upsets Jack's

MENASHA — Defending champion Jack's Rose Hill of Little Chute was upset by Esquire Bar of Green Bay, 2-1, in its first start in the Jitter's Memorial Day Softball Classic here Friday night.

Esquire scored single runs on two hits off Bob Ellison in the first and second innings. Jack Coenen relieved in the third and hurled shutout ball the rest of the way.

Rose Hill's only run came on a home run by Arlyn Pues in the fourth inning. The losers made five hits off Dean Bess, who struck out 11.

Hide-A-Way of Appleton scored a run in the first inning and made it hold up to down Miller TV of Kimberly, 1-0.

Both winner Glen Nau and loser Chuck Cotton gave up two hits. Nau struck out 11. The only run was wild pitched home.

Larry Abts tossed a 1-hitter as Military Golfand of Green Bay stopped Uncle Thirsty's of Manitowoc, 6-0, in oppose southpaw Clyde Wright, 4-5, on the mound.

Milwaukee scored twice in the fourth inning and added another run in the fifth, but Brewer threats in the final three innings failed to produce any runs.

In the seventh, the Brewers attempted to pull a delayed double steal, a maneuver which helped them beat Detroit earlier in the week. Signals apparently got crossed, however, with Don Money remaining on third base and Dave May getting thrown out as he attempted to reach second.

Milwaukee loaded the bases on the eighth on two walks and Darrell Porter's single, but Tim Johnson struck out to end the inning.

May walked with one out in the ninth and advanced to third but was left stranded as Bob Hansen popped out in the infield to end the game.

George Scott and John Briggs walked in the fourth to set up Porter's two-run double. The other Brewer run came when Money, May and Scott singled in the fifth.

Brillion qualifies five

KOHLER — Area Class C schools qualified three for the state meet at the Kohler sectional for Class B and C schools here Friday.

Brillion, which qualified two of the three, finished third with 23 points among Class C schools.

Ron Rank heaved the shot 51-0 to win that event, and Tom Mullins got seconds in both the long jump (20-8) and the low hurdles (21.7) to qualify in two events.

Reedsville's John Sheehy took first in the mile with a 4:39.0 timing.

In girls' competition, Brillion (in Class B) qualified Kathy Koucourek in the mile (first in 5:43.3) and Stephanie Bennett in the 880 (second in 2:34.9).

Hilbert's 880 medley relay team of Lois Haen, Linda Nett, Jeannie Thiel and Nancy Lau also qualified, taking second place in 1:58.7.
